Cantaloupes are offered in abundance, and are mostly from B. C. They are moving slowly and we think if the retail trade would come at a more reasonable price the consumption would double; so far they have failed to grasp the fact that these cantaloupes are grown in B. C. in abundance and quick movement is necessary because the crop is coming on fast. The price that most of the retailers are selling at is out of proportion to their purchasing price, sometimes over 100 per cent profit being asked.

FACTS AND FANCIES BY FRANK FAIRBORN (Jas. A. Livingston)

A great deal of attention is being paid at the present time to tariffs, embargoes, etc., as between Canada and her countries, and Mr. W. Oscar Sealey has been broadcasting his ideas all over the Dominion on tariffs, embargoes, railway rates, etc., all of which I heartily agree with.

At the same time, another Canadian, Mr. J. J. Gibbons of Toronto, has been publishing letters in the press addressed to the Right Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King on the subject of the tariff and similar problems, and I think that one of his letters on the subject of raw materials is worthy of a place in these columns.

There is not the slightest doubt that Canada has been most profligate in the matter of her raw materials, and Mr. Gibbons' letter on raw materials is most timely. It is as follows:

"Some nations make themselves rich and populous by taking materials, that are themselves of little or no value, and fashioning them into articles of great value by the application of their own skill."

"A piece of clay is worth nothing, but when converted into a piece of artistic pottery, it may easily sell for several dollars. A piece of pig iron is worth little more than the piece of clay, but when converted into watch springs it is worth a fortune!"

"Canada has a great abundance of materials that she is selling mainly as raw materials, thereby enabling other countries to profit at her expense."

"She is selling her forest products in the form of pulp, or as logs, timber and rough lumber, when she might be selling a much larger proportion of them as paper, or as highly finished articles of wood."

"She is letting United States millers take her hard wheat, and make it into flour to supply their own and foreign markets, when she might be supplying those markets herself by doing all the grinding in her own mills."

"She is inviting United States manufacturers to help themselves to her ores, so that they can make them into metal products to sell back to her, when she might be making them into metal products herself and forcing the United States consumer to buy from her."

"As long as Canada pursues that policy she is blinding herself to her opportunities—stunting her own growth. She is like a driver trying to run his car in low gear with the brake clamped on, wondering the while why all the other cars on the road are sailing past him."

"Other nations, being deficient in those materials, must buy either the materials themselves or the products made from the materials. They prefer to buy the former, and employ their own labor in manufacturing for their own requirements. So they bluff Canada into selling them the materials, by putting high duties on the products made from the materials."

"All Canada needs to do to call their bluff is to put high duties on the finished products that other countries sell her. To go to sell her—then tender or await an answer."

Imagine if you can what the result would be, if—as Mr. Gibbons suggests—all our pulpwood and other forest products were manufactured at home—stupendous.

Imagine, if you can, what the result would be if all our wheat—now ground in foreign countries was ground at home—stupendous.

Imagine, if you can, what the results would be, if—as Mr. Gibbons suggests—all our ores were manufactured into the finished product in Canada—stupendous.

Yet all this could be brought about if the men of this little nation just set their minds to it.

If Canada only had the courage to say: "Where the raw material is, there let the manufacturer be also!"

Oh! What would the harvest be?

Oh! What would the harvest be?

BUY CANADIAN GOODS

(La Tribune, Sherbrooke, Que.)

In order to succeed successfully, the sale of Canadian products must necessarily be supported by a consistent publicity on a vast scale. In fact, it is to be felt that our fellow citizens must be induced to buy more freely in their own home towns, in their own provinces and country for their everyday needs. Thus shall we reduce progressively the figure of our imports and increase that of our exports.

Notes and Comments On Current Events

(By PETER PETERKIN)

The Hon. Mackenzie King hesitates whether to go on marking time and enjoying the sweets of office for another year, or take the advice of some of his more sanguine supporters and bring on an "immediate election." During the last four years there has been a government by consent, and such a government has no real sense of power, being forced to perpetually consider its own security, so that it dare not risk real contest on any question of great importance.

Apparently this unfortunate condition of affairs suits the peculiar temperament of our present premier and he has shown considerable skill in playing off one faction against another so as to stay in power. Meanwhile, however, the country suffers, for neither he nor his government have made any strong attempt to solve and deal with the tremendous problems pressing for an immediate satisfactory solution before Canada can enter into the state of prosperity to which she is clearly entitled.

Our chief problem are the tariff, the railways, immigration, taxation and the reorganization of our civil government in the direction of greater efficiency and lower costs. And in so far as the present government has attempted to deal with these problems, it has either made no progress at all or has hindered. Therefore it seems to me that the people of Canada need a change, or at least the opportunity to make one, and so the quicker the general election comes the better.

Canada has practically made little or no progress since the end of the war, and if the election results in a new government possessing a good working majority we will at least be able to do something; it can change the tariff, decide about the future of government railways, one way or another. It can make a serious attempt to reduce taxation, and it can adopt a sensible immigration policy. The chief need is for a government of authority and courage which can put the civil service and public spending on a sound business footing.

In the words of the Simcoe Reformer: "The country is in dire need of a government composed of independent-minded, sound-thinking business men with a comprehensive understanding of national problems and a will to solve them as speedily and as satisfactorily as possible." The national welfare demands an election and I think that at the present time the Conservative party, while it may not possess all the requirements demanded, comes much nearer to it than any of the other parties, and should therefore be given a chance to see what it can do.

Every day proofs multiply of the injurious effects of excessive taxation. In a recent issue of the New York Times two suggestive news items appeared side by side. The first announced that the taxes levied on railways had now reached the huge amount of one million dollars per day! This represented an increase of $20,000 per day over the previous year. The second announced that the western railroads were seeking a 20 per cent advance in the rates on live stock. Here we see the working of the vicious circle and how effect inevitably follows cause.

The railways, of course, have no occult means of meeting fresh burdens laid on them by bodies having the power to tax, and are therefore compelled to fall back on the rates structure to obtain a larger revenue. The common people, accordingly, who are the consumers of the things taxed, ultimately foot the bill, and this can only be done at the expense of their savings. And every dollar thus extracted from the earnings of the people is a dollar less available for their productive purposes.

Jury-men are now to receive palatial accommodations in Montreal. Private bedrooms, baths, and a billiard parlor have been provided, and, no doubt, a private golf course and moving pictures will follow. In between all these counter attractions some time, it is to be hoped, will be found for consideration of the evidence.

The blame for agricultural decline in England has been placed on the female sex and the lack of rural domestic science by Mrs. Margaret Winchingham, a former Liberal M.P., who declared: "The farmer's wife is not so interested in doing the adjuncts of farm work as she used to be, and that is one of the reasons why agriculture is declining." It is a good thing that was not a mere man who said that or it would have spelled "trouble."

The pastor of the Church of Advanced Thought in New York expresses the opinion that the spirits in the great beyond have access to earthly liquor supplies. If this were really true death might lose its sting for some, but what about the poor living bootlegger?

An old gentleman was a trifle bewildered at an elaborate wedding: "Are you the bridegroom?" he asked a melancholy-looking man. "No, sir," the young man replied. "I was eliminated in the preliminary try-out!"

My fount and my appetite both are good—
I've the world by the tail with a downhill pull!
I've made more coin than I thought I could—
I've the world by the tail with a downhill pull!
I can look in the face of every man and child—
Nay more, the woman, both tame and wild—
With a conscience spotless and vindicated:
I've the world by the tail with a downhill pull!

I've given the goods and taken the price—
I've the world by the tail with a downhill pull!
I have lost my profit once or twice—
I've the world by the tail with a downhill pull!
The things I've bought have soared and soared,
And go to the shop till all our board—
Was gone, but conditions will be restored—
I've the world by the tail with a downhill pull!

I know some farmers are plumb and blue—
I've the world by the tail with a downhill pull!
But that condition is nothing new—
I've the world by the tail with a downhill pull!
A pessimist only has a hard business day—
It's not how it rains, or how business aches—
That smart all his view with certain pain—
I've the world by the tail with a downhill pull!

So long as I'm honest in service and goods—
I've the world by the tail with a downhill pull!
I'll whistle because I am out of the woods—
I've the world by the tail with a downhill pull!
I never will weep over what I can't help,
The day of despair is a cowardly whelp—
Though hard in the fight I'll not utter a whelp—
I've the world by the tail with a downhill pull!

BITES "GLASS" FINDS "DIAMOND"

St. Catharines, Aug. 25.—Wee Berkeley Brown, daughter of Clayton B.
Brown, this city, this afternoon purchased an "all-day sucker" at a candy booth on the Midway at Lakeside Park, Port Dalhousie. Her teeth closed on a hard bit of substance which she thought was glass. It was so shiny, however, she decided to take it to the booth. It proved to be a diamond worth $125, which had dropped out of a ring worn by the candy sucker while making the day's supply of "suckers" and he had just discovered his loss.

What kind of foolishness permitted the stone to get into the candy in the first place?

To Clean Paint

White paint that is unvarnished should be cleaned with a flannel, warm water, and a little whiting on the flannel. Dark paint which has become shabby will look like new if rubbed with linseed oil and vinegar, equal parts, and polished well with a soft cloth. Grained wood should be washed with cold tea, and thoroughly rubbed with a dry, soft flannel till bright.

Vegetable Chop Suey

Mix a cup each of shredded cabbage and fine-chopped celery, add two medium onions, grated, and one cup and one half of field mushrooms, first browned in butter on a hot pan, then roughly chopped. BUT THE WOMEN FALL FOR HIM

Recently we came across this paragraph: "I would rather have my health, own a flat-bottom fishing boat and have the confidence and friendship of a family dog, than be the biggest bluff on Broadway."

We know a man who wears head clothes, a flashy diamond, and, by his talk, attracts much attention in a certain city office building, but about once in so often a collector comes around and asks the elevator porter where he can find this big bluff.

We also know a man who has made his pile, who is in the clear, and has enough laid away in conservative investments to live comfortably the rest of his life and leave a tidy income to his family after he is gone. This man has often said to us, "It doesn't pay to fly too high."

Which of these men is right? The law of gravity still works. Fly high and you light low. It may be, for while you are up in the air, but it's fatal when you fall.

A steady income, a good position, just enough responsibility to make you resourceful, the friendship of a few old-fashioned folks, and you'll have it all over the swell guy who is living on borrowed capital.

And then another thing that most folks know. The more success a man has—the more money he has—the more modest he is. The flashy fellow is almost always a failure.

ENGLAND'S QUEEN SETS A FASHION

London Aug. 12.—When Queen Mary sets a fashion—which is very rarely—she generally catches on with the smart set. The latest vogue which the Queen has started is the wearing of small real jewels in her hat.

Several society women at the recent race meeting followed the fashion but on a larger scale the jewelled ornaments being in the shape of valuable brooches.

Character Reading From Photographs

The power of reading a person's character from the photograph is not only interesting but at times very useful, as for instance when an employer is to be engaged from a distance. To form a judgment divide the pictured face in half. The lower part gives the key to the person's conscious self; the upper the subconscious self.

Full and developed lips show a full and rounded chin will tell you that the person is one of an intensely emotional and impulsive person; one who thinks much of all things material; one who will make sure of the pleasures of life.

Thin, compressed lips and a small chin tell unmistakably of incapacity of real feeling, of coldness of temperament, lack of sympathy, indifference to beauty, the meanness of soul. One authority says that blonde women of this type have little regard for the truth; and are apt to take a wrong meaning from other people's actions.

A well-balanced, well-shaped mouth means a well-balanced disposition. It belongs to one who is capable of deep feeling, but knows how to control the surge of emotions; who can be generous without being imprudently lavish, and whose every action is tempered with common-sense.

Study the lower half of the face and "read" it in relation to the material things of life. Then turn your attention to the upper portion, which stands for all things related to mind and spirit.

See whether the forehead is low and narrow, indicating a small and common-sense mind; or low and broad, giving more breadth of understanding, though denoting a practical rather than an imaginative mind; or is it, perhaps high and lofty, the brow of the noble and the great in mind and deed?

In summing up a photograph, the lack of variety of expression in the eyes is made up for by the fact that you may more thoroughly scan their shape, their depth and their expression, for you may gaze at them longer than it is polite to gaze into the eyes of the living original. If there is a smile on the lips of this portrait, seek its counterpart in the eyes. The only sincere smile is given with the eyes, and this shows a kindly, sunny temper.

Small, close-set eyes with a low forehead denote the man of action, often the fanatic, while the wide-part, open eyes stand for broadmindedness, vision and imagination.

Athletic Shoes

Girls can go in for athletics without spoiling the Venus-foot by wearing brogues and other low-heeled types of footwear. Such is the dictum of Mrs. Elliott-Lynn, vice-president of the British Women's Amateur Athletic association.

In her latest book, Athletics for Women and Girls, Mrs. Elliott-Lynn says there is no need to wear the flat-footed so-called "athletic" shoes copied from men's footwear, and which are undoubtedly spoiling the shape of many athletic girls' feet.

The author says she has always worn high heels, and has never seen "low really ill-effects" from moderately high heels worn in everyday life. Prolonged walking, or for actual athletic contests, of course, lower heels are desirable, she says.

"The perfect athletic foot is beautifully arched, and is able to see daylight under it when standing bare foot. If one sets one's eyes on a level with the surface on which it rests. Even this point of Venus is not spoiled by the much-abused high heel which adds to the balance and poise of the wearer."

If she supports high heels, Mrs. Elliott-Lynn will say nothing to do with croquet, which should not be worn, in general life. She says that "a foreign boy of strong constitution and wholesome descent," the natural wall of the human body. It being in line with the spine, she says, this is the only one that is good for the body, and she says, "on the ball-room and in the country or out of it, it is the best."

PEACH DAINTIES

Some Timely Recipes For Use of Popular Fruit

PEACH DAINTIES

Peach Cream—Is a delightful and dainty dessert. Mash a cupful of canned fresh cooked peaches of rich flavor and put them through a sieve. Allow as much rich sweet cream as peach pulp. Sweeten to taste, mix and whip until you have a light foamy mixture. Heap up in steamed glasses and serve very cold with macaroons.

Peach and Rice Custard—Wash five tablespoons of rice in plenty of water and then cook until soft in two and one-half cups of boiling water. Now add 2 cups of milk, $\frac{1}{4}$ cup of sugar, yolk of one egg, 2 cups of crushed peaches, $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon of nutmeg. Mix thoroughly and then bake in a moderate oven for twenty-five minutes. Cool and serve with fruit whip, using the white bit from the egg and one-half glass of jelly. Heat until mixture holds its shape.

Peach Pudding—One egg, one scant cup sugar, pinch of salt, one cup sweet milk, one and one-half cups flour.

Add two teaspoons of baking powder to the flour and then beat all together and bake in two layers. Peel and slice ripe peaches and place between and on top of the layers. Add a generous serving of whipped cream just before serving. Strawberries may be used in this same recipe.

Baked Peach Pudding—Peel and stone peaches and lay them in the bottom of a deep pudding dish. Strew over them a cup of sugar and let them stand for an hour. Make a rich biscuit dough, adding more shortening than is needed for biscuit, roll it into a sheet, handling as little as possible, and lay over the top of the peaches. Put in the oven and bake, covered, for fifteen minutes, then uncover and bake to a golden brown. Serve hot with a creamy butter sauce.

Peach Charlotte—1 quart peaches, 6 slices buttered bread. Sugar to taste. Peel and stone the peaches. Put through the food-chopper and sweeten to taste. Line a pudding-dish with a layer of buttered bread and then a layer of the peaches. Continue until the ingredients are all used. Put a plate over the contents and put the dish in the refrigerator to chill. When time to serve, top with whipped cream, or use a sauce instead. For the sauce put peeled and stoned peaches through the food-chopper and sweeten. Chill. The Charlotte may be turned out of the pudding-dish and unmolded.

Peach Short Cake—Take 2 cups of flour, $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons sugar, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 3 tablespoons shortening, 1 egg, $\frac{1}{2}$ cup milk or sufficient to mix a soft dough. Sift dry ingredients, rub in shortening, add beaten egg to milk and add to dry ingredients to make soft dough. Smooth or roll out one-half of the dough lightly. Put into greased, deep-dish tin; spread with butter. Cover with a layer half of dough which has been rolled out to fit pan. Bake in hot oven twenty to twenty-five minutes. Split while hot, and spread with mashed sweetened peaches. Cover top with quartered peaches and dust with powdered sugar. Serve with cream whipped or plain as you prefer.

Peaches and Rice—Put one-half teaspoon of salt and one cup of boiling water in top of double boiler. Place or range and add gradually one-half cup of rice, stirring with a fork. Boil five minutes, cover, place in under part of double boiler and steam until kernels are soft. Mold, chill and remove to serving dish; arrange halves of peaches around base and on top and sprinkle peaches with rolled dry macaroons. Garnish with whipped cream sweetened and flavored with vanilla. Make and have ready tart or pie forms of flaky pastry. When needed freshen in oven, then fill the peach tart and baked pie crust with raw peaches and cover with sweetened whipped cream. This is delicious raw peach dessert.

Peach Butter—4 quarts of pared-and-cut peaches, 3 cupfuls of granulated sugar, 1 cupful of water. All peaches should be washed before paring. The paring can be used for making syrup. Cut into small slices; put into a porcelain lined kettle, and add the sugar. Let stand for fifteen minutes, and add one cupful of water. Put over a slow fire and boil slowly for one hour, stirring often to keep from sticking to the bottom of the kettle. If the peaches are hard or not very ripe, a little more water may have to be used.

Peach Preserve—1 lb. ripe peaches, pared and cut in pieces; 1 grated pineapple, orange and lemon; $\frac{1}{2}$ lb. blanched and chopped almonds; 4 lb. seedless raisins. Put in the preserving kettle and boil until soft. Measure and to each pint of fruit add 1 lb. of sugar. Continue cooking at simmering point until the whole mass is rich and smooth and thick. Stir frequently to prevent scorching. Seal while hot in sterilized jars.

Old Time Preserved Peaches—Pare the peaches, cut them in halves and remove pits. Throw the peaches at once into cold water; make a syrup of one pound of sugar and one quart of water, stirring constantly until the sugar is dissolved. Drain the peaches out of the water, drop into the syrup, allowing four pounds of peaches to above quantity of syrup. Bring at once to a boil, then stand back on the range where they will just bubble, until they can be pierced with a wooden toothpick. Carefully place each piece in the jar, hollow side toward the center, and fill the jar to overflowing with the boiling hot juice, shaking the jar slightly or running the blade of a silver knife down to allow the juice to fill all space between the fruit and exclude the air bubbles. Work quickly and deftly. Screw down the lids tightly and turn the jars upside down, allowing them to remain in this position until the following day. In this way any possible leak around the cover will be discovered.

Peaches Pickled—If hard, steam them until tender; if soft, wipe them only; then pack them in jars. Take one quart of sugar and one tablespoon of cloves and broken stick cinnamon (tied in a bag) to each quart of vinegar. Boil it for five minutes and pour hot over the fruit; the next day turn it off, boil again, and pour hot on the peaches again; repeat once, seal up and put away.

Sweet Peach Pickle—Take white clingstone peaches, pare and stick with cinnamon bark and cloves, weigh them and allow one-half pound of sugar to each pound of fruit. Put the sugar into the kettle and wet with good vinegar. Let it boil to a thick syrup, add the peaches, let them boil until they look clear and stick to the jar, boil the syrup a half-hour longer, and pour over the peaches.

Canned Peaches—Wash your jars; wash rubbers; test rubbers for quality. Set empty jars and rubbers in pan of water to heat. Fill washbottle to cover jars two inches with water. Heat water in washbottle. Wash peaches, cut out rot spots. Put peaches in a square of cheesecloth or wire basket. Dip one minute in kettle of boiling water. Plunge immediately into cold water. Skin the peaches; save whole or cut as preferred. Pack peaches in hot jars. Fill hot jar with hot syrup or boiling water. Put rubbers and tops in position. Tighten tops; not airtight. Place jars on false bottom in washbottle. Submerge jars two inches. Let the water boil fifteen minutes. Start counting when the water begins to boil. Remove jars. Tighten tops airtight. If jars to discover leaks. If leaks are found change rubbers and boil jars five minutes. Wrap jars to prevent bleaching. Store in cool, dry place. To make syrup: Three quarts sugar, two quarts water. Boil until sugar is dissolved. Skin off impurities. Keep it hot.

BREAKFASTS

My family like cereals, and formerly we used a great deal of pack as food, not because we felt it was cheaper or more nourishing, possibly not even so, as we thought the sealed package kept the food cleaner, but just because we liked it, writes a correspondent. It stands to reason that light well-prepared breakfast foods though very good tasting, have the minimum of nutriment for their bulk, hence I looked about for other things which would take their place.

I found that I could get Jarvis heavy three pounds of Whole Wheat flour for what one package of the cereal breakfast foods would cost. I found I had a great deal more weight for 25 cents in the whole wheat than in the prepared food; I found I could cook this wheat deliciously in twenty to thirty minutes by putting it in cold water enough to fill it to the full extent and then cooking it until done without stirring. This method gives a food puffing out almost like popcorn and is a delicious substitute (to us) for the breakfast cereals which many of us eat.

Mr. Jarvis Whole Wheat is not so light and bulky, but 30 cents worth goes farther than 50 c. of the cereal of the light, crisp, cooked foods. The expense of cooking is nothing, as the fire must be had for the other things. Jarvis Whole Wheat cooked, thinned to a thick paste with a few chopped dates in, put into moulds, and served cold with cream and sugar make as good a supper dish as children want, and when men like it and like it better, 100 per cent of the Wheat contains no gluten which many others do not.

WE MIGHT HAVE SOME BENEFIT
Chatham, Aug. 25.—The publicity which Kent County has been receiving as the result of the splendid crops this year is beginning to have its effect. A few days ago a Hollander who resides in St. John, N. B., visited the district with the object of arranging for the purchase of several hundred acres of land for the purpose of not building Dutch colonies. He states that there are at the present time many farms in Holland anxious to purchase farms, but cannot do so in their native country, and that they would welcome an opportunity to come to Canada.

If the people of this district would wake to the advantages of advertising, the Macgurn Peabody's would be getting some of this.

KELLEY WINS AND LOSES A PROTEST

The last time Russell T. Kelley's Intermediate lacrosse team played in St. Kitts, the home team rang in four substitutes on them instead of the customary three. Kelley at once protested the game and the Executive in their wisdom allowed the game to stand as played but fined St. Kitts $25.00 for infraction of rules. They also ordered two games to be played for the group championship, one in St. Catharines today, and the other in Hamilton, on Saturday. A large number of local sports are taking in both battles.

UNCLAIMED PRIZES

Charlie Stoddard announces that a number of prizes won in the various events on the field day at Honey Creek, have not been claimed. The third prize in the married men's 100-yard dash, and the second award in 14-year-old girls' race are among them. In the drawing contest the holder of ticket No. 1,573, winner of the second prize, is asked to apply at once, and if this is not claimed within a few days, the prize will be given to the holder of ticket No. 1,519. In the children's drawing contest the second prize has not been claimed. This was won by No. 3,076, and will go to the holder of No. 2,125 if not secured at once.

BRIDGEBURG GOOD

The Bridgeburg Intermediate O.A. B.A. team winners of the local groups, are still in the race. They entered the third round by defeating Galt in Galt on Saturday, score 3-2 in a thirteen innings game. Galt notched two tallies in the first, one in the third, and one in the thirteenth. McCarthy the Galt twirler fanned 23, only allowed 3 hits, batted two games but was responsible for his defeat. Bender started on the mound for Bridgeburg but was replaced in the second by Williamson, who was very effective with men on the bases.

TENNIS

Defeating Miss Mary Patterson by scores of 6 to 4 and 6 to 1 in two sets, Miss Mary Bigger on Saturday claimed the silver challenge cup provided for the ladies' singles in the inter-club tournament being played between members of St. John's Winona and Community Tennis clubs. The men's singles for which a silver challenge cup is also given were not completed. Arthur Bigger in the semi-finals eliminated Fred Woodcock. Cliff Halsey and Reg. Gerrard are yet to play off, and the winner will meet Arthur Bigger for the cup.

FALSE TEETH FOIL
PUBLICITY STUNT

Niagara Falls, Aug. 31.—Hobby Leach, who is said to have once won over Niagara Falls in a barrel, made two attempts to swim the Niagara River below the Falls yesterday and says that he would have succeeded in the second attempt if his false teeth had not come out. In grabbing for them he swallowed a lot of water and was unable to continue.

out. According to the local magnates they had a couple of protests in and when the meeting was called to decide same it was impossible to have the necessary evidence present. An adjournment was asked for and apparently granted but nevertheless the executive went ahead and dealt with the matter deciding against the Grimsby team. Under the circumstances the local management felt the only thing to do was to withdraw.

The official standing was announced as follows:

Team	Won	Lost
Honey Creek	10	6
Frutland	9	7
Baronsville	8	3
Grimsby	2	2
Winona	6	10

The season was a more or less troublesome one, protests and arguments continually developing.

FRASER'S BOYS
BEAT BEAVERS

The Niagara Falls Senior O.A.B.A. team secured a comfortable lead over the Hamilton Beavers, on Saturday, with a 10-1 score. Fraser's crew tallied four in the second and six in the sixth, while the best the Beavers could do was one in the third and three in the eighth. Nova, the Falls pitcher was very effective while his team mates found Hardman no puzzle. It looks as if Gene is going to add a Baseball Trophy to his already large collection.

GOOD BYE SOO

Yesterday's Globe carries the following:

"Last night's despatch from the Canadian Soo to the effect that an announcement will be made this week concerning the severance of that club's relationship with the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, and Canadian hockey generally, means that one of the oldest and best teams of the past decade is out of business as far as the Allan Cup is concerned. The Soo team will join the United States Hockey Association group composed of Marquette, Eveleth, Hibbing, St. Paul and Minneapolis. Inability to gain admittance to the senior series of the Ontario Hockey Association, because of the objection of other teams to taking the long trips to the Soo, caused the latter team to join the U. S. league. The Northern Ontario Hockey Association senior series does not offer enough games for the Can. 1 team. The ten home games offered by the U. S. league will provide more gate receipts, which is a real consideration in the Soo. No games will be played by the Soo team with Canadian teams unless peace is declared between the C. A. H. A. and the governing body of hockey in the States. Despatches say that the team of last year is intact and that a number of additional players have found their way to the banks of the canal. This is sure bad news for the sports of the Soo. The Soo folks were great contributors to the welfare of this district last season and it was hoped that they would kick in again next season. Let us hope that some other team will take pity on us next March and donate as cheerfully and splendidly as MacNamara and Co. did.

OPTOMETRY

It's value to the public.

By VERNON TUCK, R.O.
Grimsby, Ontario

We now purpose considering astigmatism, a very prevalent, distressing and detrimental error of vision. Astigmatism is the result of the eye being improperly shaped. It is responsible for more headaches than any other one cause. Every moment that the astigmatic eye is in use, either for close or distant seeing, it is subjected to strain. The only rest such an eye gets is while it is closed.

In thousands of cases astigmatism is present without the knowledge of the patient. It often happens that a person of strong physique and much reserve energy will be for many years unacquainted with the fact that he is astigmatic.

ROMANCE IS NOT DEAD HERE YET

Beaumontville, Aug. 31.—A romance that had its origin on a ranch in far-away Glasgow, Montana, some eight years ago had its culmination here on Thursday last. Views of Montana scenery sent to a family in Toronto by a young rancher years ago prompted a young woman of the family to write a return thankful letter. The correspondence has been kept up through the years and last Wednesday the rancher arrived in Toronto to make the acquaintance of his correspondent. He received a short 600-word letter, though, for he was told the young lady was with the service girls in camp near Beaumontville. He lost no time in arriving on the scene, a typical westerner, hat, boots and all. Needless to say, he was soon put in touch with the lady, who received a receipt from camp duties for a time. The westerner disposed of his cattle before leaving Montana and states that he will likely reside in Toronto, so that apparently everything has gone well. —Hamilton Spectator

C.N.E. NOTES

Many factories all over Ontario are closing all day Saturday, September 5, to give their employees a chance to visit the Canadian National Exhibition over Labor Day.

It takes the wool of ten million sheep to supply the Canadian demand for woolen and knit goods. The secret of how it is done is being revealed at the Canadian National Exhibition.

Auto pushball, more thrilling than auto polo, is the latest dare-devil pastime to be introduced at the Canadian National Exhibition this year. It is played with four cars and a huge rubber ball weighing 250 pounds. It has a spine-cramping effect on the spectators.

A bearded lady with three marriages to her credit is among those present on the Midway at the Canadian National Exhibition.

Cash prizes of $1,000, and the title of "Champion Band of Canada," will go to the winner of the band competitions on Music Day, at the Canadian National Exhibition.

Community singing will again be conducted on the grandstand at the Canadian National Exhibition. Over 25,000 people take part each night.

Labor Day

LABOR DAY is the one holiday which we can celebrate for its own sake unhampered by patriotic or sentimental traditions. It is just a plain holiday designed for pure undisturbed enjoyment, and very fortunately it happens at a most pleasant time of the year.

A house party is a particularly happy form of entertainment for young people just before their turn to school in the fall.

It need not involve too much effort on the part of the hostess if she is ingenious enough to combine work with amusement. One clever mother who had a group of her daughter's friends for a week-end affair, her guests an opportunity to help with the household tasks, in this way, each morning after breakfast the colored slips of paper were passed around, two of each color, and on each were inscribed one or two small tasks with directions in detail for accomplishing them. Then in groups of two the girls prepared the vacuum, swept the living room, laid the lunch for the picnic or party which was part of the day's fun, while the boys washed the car and cleaned the porch.

This plan would be especially valuable at a summer cottage where there are so many extra things to be done. And unless you try it, you don't realize how much fun young people get out of working, and how much more they appreciate the good times you plan for them when the work is finished. Boys love to show off their superior ability in making jam-jars, or beating rugs. Give them a chance and they will enjoy themselves twice as much as if everything were prepared for them.

The most difficult part of any house party is, of course, the food, because it has to be served often and in quantities to appease healthy young appetites. With a little previous planning, however, even this task can be reduced to a minimum. Arrange the menu and do as much of the ordering as possible before the guests arrive.

A sample list of menus for a day week-end party is given below with a few recipes for each item.
